BULLETIN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Rome, Nov. 6 (2:35 a. m.)—The grand council of the Fascist party concluded its session at 2:30 o'clock this morning, when it issued a communiqué declaring the reprisals following the attempt on Premier Mussolini's life last Sunday were the logical consequences of the people's indignation. It expressed regret for the acts before the foreign consulates, which were called the work of irregular elements outside of the control of the Fascist party.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Rome, Nov. 5.—The Fascist dictatorship of Italy, which has existed since 1922 in fact, came into the open today. There is to be only one political party in Italy from now on—Fascism.

All opposition is gagged by severe laws, backed by death and heavy prison penalties.

Premier Mussolini, assuming his seat in council post—that of minister of the interior—will take personal charge of the enforcement of these laws. Minister of the Interior Federico and Minister of Colonies De Scalzo, remained tonight to make possible the changes. Mr. Federico will become minister of colonies.

Bills with Military Law.

Courts martial for political crimes, ranging from attempts against the life of the sovereign, crown prince, or chief of government to spreading false, exaggerated, or malicious reports abroad, are decreed in a law approved this afternoon by the council of ministers, sitting under the presidency of Premier Mussolini.

These courts are to be constituted as follows: A president, who will be chosen from among high officers of the royal army, navy, air force, and militia, and five officers of the Fascist militia, who will have the rank of colonel [colonel] or higher. The constitution of such courts will be ordered by the minister of war—Premier Mussolini—who will decide their number of members and composition.

Political crimes thus are taken from the hands of the regularly constituted military and placed in that of the Fascist military commanders. The procedures to be followed will be those of the penal code of the army of the time of war. All attributes which are accorded by this code to the commander in chief of the army in time of war are conferred on the minister of war.

Death for Plotters.

The text of the law creating courts martial, which is entitled "provisions for the safety of the state," and which has a duration of five years from the date of publication in the official gazette, provides the death penalty for following crimes: attempt against the life of the king, regent, queen, prince or head of the government; attempt to bring the nation or any part thereof under foreign domination; complicity with espionage; incitement to revolution; incitement to civil war.

Two or more persons planning to carry out any of the above deeds are liable by imprisonment from fifteen to fifteen years.

For the reorganization of associations or parties officially organized, three to ten years' imprisonment with the loss of citizenship. Persons taking part are punished by imprisonment from two to five years. Persons who spread abroad, by any form, false, exaggerated or malicious reports concerning the internal condition of the state in such a way that the credit of the state would be damaged abroad, will be imprisoned for five to fifteen years.

Laws Not Retrospective.

With the mitigation of circumstances the judge can replace the death sentence with life imprisonment and other punishments can be reduced to one-third.

The Tribune correspondent is able to report that the law as framed will not have a retrospective effect. Persons tried for crimes it will be judged by special tribunals provided for the same, but under terms of former laws bearing on crimes they have committed.

All proceedings against persons for crimes described in the new law which are described on page 4, column 1.

TEACHERS PUT

TELL GRIEVANCES

Hailing each other as "boys and girls" the seventy-four public school teachers over 70 years of age retired on emeritus service met at the City Club last night to review what they charge is a predicament and to suggest means of getting out of it.

Impromptu speakers introduced by the president, James E. Armstrong, told of their grievances. Emeritus service was branded as a form of German efficiency. Poetry was recited to prove that a man's age does not depend upon his years, but on his needs.

Money, it was decided, is needed in two to two and a half years to complete the Public Works at Sprague said.

laws begun on or before the day on which the law takes effect will be "brought to the knowledge of the tribunals constituted" in the state in which they exist.

This sentence refers directly to the process against former Deputy Zamboni, Gen. Capello, the Hon. Violet Gibson, and Gino Locetti, who attempted to kill Premier Mussolini.

These were the most startling of the measures promised by the duce to the Roman Fascists yesterday.

All Passports Annulled.

In addition to the "safety of the state" laws, seven proposals were laid before the council by Sig. Federso and unanimously accepted. They are:

ONE—Revision of passports and the amendment from Nov. 9 of all passports excepting those given persons who are actually abroad.

TWOO—The institution of severe punishment for attempts to emigrate without a passport.

THREE—Closing of all newspapers or periodicals opposed to the Fascist regime.

FOUR—Dissolution of all parties, associations, and organizations which develop live action against the government.

Creates Political Police.

FIVE—Institution of deportation by the police of persons who committed or have shown intention to commit acts of violence against the social, economic, or national structure of state or hindrance officials in the performance of their functions.

SIX—Adoption of severe punishment against every one who without authorization wears the uniform or badge of any association, body, or institution constituted within the state or operating therein, especially the uniforms and badges of the Fascist organization.

SEVEN—Institution of a political investigation in every command of the Legion of militia-regimental commands. This embodies the creation of a special Fascist political police service.

Ends Days of Compromise.

With the acceptance of today's decisions by the council of ministers and grand council of the party, Fascism enters a new period—the fifth in the brief history of the revolution—which may be called the period of intran-gence. The previous periods fall within the natural limits of the evolution of happenings in the analysis of the party. The first period of consolidation and advance began with the march on Rome and ended with the death of the Socialist deputy, Matteotti, June 10, 1924. The second, or period of uncertainty in which the opposition in parliament, through the newspapers, did about as it pleased, in which there appeared uncertainty for the continued existence of the Fascist régime. The third period came to an abrupt end Jan. 5, 1925, with the application of the press law, the seizure and closing of many opposition newspapers, severe censorship of others, and sweeping legislative reforms. This period was also marked by the parliamentary "strike" of the opposition parties.

The fourth period was one of "direct action," which began with the

PASTOR IS DEAD AFTER ATTACK BY OLD FRIEND

The Rev. Jacob Hammerschmidt, 64 years old, missionary-evangelist, holy roller, and pastor of the Pentecostal church at 51st and Ada streets, died yesterday as the result of a brawl in his home, 4117 North Lincoln street. The night before when he and Gustav Lohr, his landlord, differed over religion and at the height of a frantic discussion, Lohr knocked the minister down and crushed him in his stomach with both feet.

URGE AVONDALE AVENUE BE MADE INTO BOULEVARD

Opening of Avondale avenue from the loop to the northwest city limits as a boulevard was urged before the board of local improvements yesterday by a delegation of residents from the northwest part of the city.

The plan conforms partially with the program of the Chicago plan commission, which advocates a boulevard constructed level with the Chicago and Northwestern railway tracks. Avondale avenue parallels this proposed highway for several miles.

frustrated attempt of former Deputy Zamboni to take Premier Mussolini's life Nov. 4, 1925. This period was marked by three subsequent attempts, all of which were traced by Fascist authorities to the opposition elements.

The new and more stringent laws are the direct result of the opposition's acts of violence, culminating in a boy's attempt to kill Sig. Mussolini at Geneva last Sunday. The last voice of the opposition has been stilled with the dissolution of the opposition parties and the definite closing of all opposition newspapers.

During the first period of Fascist history there was an important opposition in parliament and in the press. During the second period the parliamentary opposition withdrew as a sign of protest, but the opposition press became more pronounced in its attacks.

Parliament a Rubber Stamp. The third period saw the wiping out of more than the formalist parliamentary opposition, while the opposition newspapers were limited practically to party organs, the great liberal newspapers being either suppressed or so hampered that they could not operate.

The fourth period saw the last of the important opposition press, the "Courrier Della Difesa" being forced to sell out, while parliament became a rubber stamp for the decisions of the Fascist grand council.

The Fascist party now is to be cleaned out of all doubtful elements and probably will be reduced by twenty-five per cent.

I knew them as Frank Carter, William Walker and George Morgan, Khyatt said. "Morgan was introduced to me as a brother of J. Pierpont Morgan, of whom I had, of course, heard. They took $12,500 from me. Morgan told me to meet them at the Blackstone hotel in Chicago on Nov. 1. I have been waiting but they haven't shown up."

If you want to have a clear skin, want to erase the dark circles from under your eyes, want glossy hair, and new strength, health and energy, re-supply your system with its natural Acidophilus and rid yourself of Intestinal Putrefaction.

Doctors and Medical scientists in both Europe and America claim that this intestinal condition is the great destroyer of youthful health and beauty and also that it causes many serious organic troubles. Today it collects its toll, unnecessarily, from practically every man and woman both young and old. Its marks are easily recognizable—dull, graying hair, dark circles under the eyes, sallow, pasty complexion and that tired, wan look. Notice the appearance of countless vicious bacteria.

MOYER'S Acid-O-Phil Tablets, harmless, economical and easy to take, simply restore and put back into the body the needed supply of the natural Acidophilus, which is nature's own perfect method of preventing and correcting Intestinal Putrefaction. COUNCIL TRANSIT GROUP TO OPEN STUDY OF SUBWAY

Start Consideration of Plans on Nov. 15.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The council local transportation committee decided yesterday to begin consideration of subway plans on Nov. 15. Mayor Dever submitted a message on the subject at the last council meeting and a citizens' committee presented a report several months ago. This report suggests routes, presents estimates of costs, and discusses special assessment as a method of part payment. The mayor's commission has no committee action. These two documents are to be considered joint. There were only six of the twenty members of the committee present yesterday afternoon when the committee adjourned, so that whether the committee really intends to start in earnest on Nov. 15 remains to be seen.

Comment on Report.

A few preliminary comments were made on the citizens' committee report during the day.

"They figured out how to spend the city's $45,000,000 in the loop," said Ald. Tolman.

That is like the silly comments of aldermen who said they were against this report before they read it," replied Ald. Albert. "I am going to resent all accusations against the members of this citizens' committee from states who don't know anything about the report."

The fellow who thinks I will vote for a plan which permits the property owners to pay only 35 per cent of the cost of subway had better go have his head examined," said Tolman.

Cards Laid on Table.

The citizens' committee has said that they agreed to 35 per cent "initially," replied Albert. "They have laid their cards on the table. It is our duty to consider their report."

"It is our duty to raise 35 per cent to 75 per cent," said Ald. Mills.

"Daniel L. Turner, consulting engineer of the New York subway commission said in a report three years ago that subways increased the value of property 75 per cent. It has been shown that the subways in Manhattan boosted values seven times and in the Bronx 5½ times. Take the Michigan avenue link right here in Chicago costing $2,500,000. The plan committee showed two ways to go the money had increased property values $9,000,000. The figure is now probably over $100,000,000. Thirty-five per cent is too low. The percentage should be 75."

Bus Decision Delayed.

The committee appointed a subcommittee of Ald. McKinley, Bowler and Jensen to ask the Illinois commerce commission why it does not give a decision for feeder buses on Diversify avenue.

"The petition for these buses was filed more than a year ago," argued Ald. Bowler. "I can't get any satisfaction in the matter."

The surface bus and the city, in effect, filed a joint petition. The Chicago Motor Coach company opposed the granting of the petition. So far as the aldermen can ascertain the hearings on the matter were disposed of last February. Ald. Smith wanted to know yesterday why a mandamus would not lie to compel the Illinois commerce commission to give a decision.

BAUER CABS FAIL TO POST BONDS; SEIZE 59 DRIVERS

All Now Facing Arrest Under State Law.

Failure of the Bauer Cab company to comply with the state law requiring that all taxicabs furnish bonds to guarantee payment of personal injury claims yesterday resulted in a police order to arrest all of that company's chauffeurs. Last night fifty-nine drivers had been taken into custody.

The drive will continue until the streets or until the company posts an adequate bond as required by law, according to Lieut. James Killackey, chief of the police bureau.

Action was taken when Hugh H. Smith, deputy secretary of state, with offices in Chicago, notified Chief of Police Collins that the Bauer company had not complied with the law.

$1,500 Bond for Each Cab.

The statute requires that for the protection of persons who might be injured by taxicabs each cab must be covered by a $2,500 bond. The law was passed when representations were made that many victims of taxicab accidents had been unable to collect on judgments.

Mr. Smith stated that the Bauer company had posted one bond covering five cars, with the understanding that another bond sufficient to cover the balance of its 400 taxicabs would be posted within a few days. Since then nothing had been done, Mr. Smith said, and he added that he had been recently in touch with the commissioners on the matter that he deemed it best to call it to the attention of the police.

Immediately the matter was turned over to Lieut. Killackey for action, and he sent out men with orders to arrest all Bauer chauffeurs. The drivers seized were taken to the first district police station, where company representatives bailed all out on $100 bonds.

Ask About Test Case Today.

Attention was also called by the police to the fact that a test case against the Bauer company, in which one of its officers, Harold M. Smith, is defendant, has been continued several times by Judge Matthew Hartigan in the trial.

When the judge was asked concerning this, he stated that he had granted the company thirty days in which to obtain a bond—a delay which he said they had represented to him as absolutely necessary. He declared, however, that if the bond was not posted by Nov. 15, when their time is up, he will immediately impose fines and jail sentences if necessary, to enforce the law.

All the new cases brought up by yesterday's activity of the police must be continued until Nov. 15, Judge Hartigan said.

WOMAN, JILTED, CAUSES TRUE BILLS FOR TWO

The grand jury voted a true bill yesterday charging conspiracy against William M. Skelly, 2142 East 69th street, a former policeman, and Mrs. Hazel M. Spilking, 6145 Maryland avenue, former cashier at the Trianon ballroom. They are charged with having defrauded the owners out of about $10,000 in a year by the sale of duplicate tickets, pocketing the money.

Skelly, who was a policeman on duty at the ballroom, advised Mrs. Spilking, she says, telling her he was about to get a divorce, then would marry her.

Letters written by Mrs. Spilking to Skelly, while he was on vacation at Sturgeon Bay, Wis., were intercepted by his wife. She saw Mrs. Spilking who decided to confess, causing Skelly's dismissal, and the indictments yesterday.

VAN SWERINGENS DRAFT NEW PLAN FOR RAIL MERGER

Chesapeake and Ohio to Be the Central Unit.

New York, Nov. 5.—[Special]—O. P. and A. Van Sweringens, whose main object, since the Interstate commerce commission rejected their Nickel Plate merger plan last March has been to bring into accord the various interests opposing the scheme, have finally decided to abandon their intention of making the Nickel Plate railroad the central unit of the merger and make the Chesapeake and Ohio the principal holding company of the railroads.

It thus becomes a matter of the Chesapeake leasing the present Nickel Plate instead of the Nickel Plate leasing the Chesapeake and the other roads involved in the merger.

Eliminate Two Objections.

By establishing the Chesapeake and Ohio as the kingpin of the new plan, the Van Sweringens eliminate the C. & O. minority objection to the merger, which, it is generally admitted, was instrumental in defeating the original proposal. They also free their merger from the criticism by the commission that the "high finance" they were controlling a large amount of railroad stocks by a relatively small investment.

Bargaining hereafter by the Van Sweringens will be largely a question of determining how much they can draw out from the pocket that holds the Chesapeake and Ohio and place in the pocket that holds the present Nickel Plate.

Deal for Peru Marquette.

The Van Sweringens have already reached an agreement with the directors of the Peru Marquette to lease that road to the Nickel Plate. Separate application will be made to the commerce commission for the separate and separate application for the Chesapeake and Ohio to lease the Nickel Plate. Then the system will be completed, as the C. & O. holds nearly 85 per cent of the outstanding stock of the Hocking Valley. Presently the interests are not including but present plans do not contemplate such action. If sufficient pressure is brought to bear there is, of course, a possibility that the Erie might later be leased, but railroad men regard it as doubtful.

An Opportunity to Secure Recognition

Unquestionably, there are men and women of exceptional talent as illustrators whose work, for some reason or other, has never come to our attention.

It may be, for example, that they are young and have as yet done only a small volume of work.

It may be that they have hitherto confined themselves to exhibition painting, and are now only beginning to consider the commercial possibilities of their gifts and training.

Are you such an artist? Then, this is an invitation to present samples of your work to one of the largest advertising agencies in the United States.

Samples may be mailed or delivered. They should be wrapped securely with the name, address and telephone number of the sender marked distinctly on the package. All samples will be returned as promptly as possible.

IRA N. MORRIS TAKES CHARGE OF QUEEN'S PROGRAM

Major, Marie's Aid, Tells of Row with Hill.

WORK IS STARTED ON BRYAN MEMORIAL UNIVERSITY IN DAYTON

Dayton, Tenn., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Work began today on the first units of the Bryan Memorial university, to be built on a knoll overlooking the little town in which William Jennings Bryan died. Gov. Austin Peay, who Tuesday was reflected for a third term, participated in ground breaking ceremonies yesterday.

The structure which has been planned for the Bryan Memorial university will cost approximately $250,000.

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Col. John H. Carroll, official host of the party of Queen Marie of Roumania, announced here tonight that Ira Nelson Morris, Roumanian consul general at Chicago, would take charge of the entertainment and reception program for the remainder of the queen's tour.

Mr. Morris had charge of the program until Sam Hill, the queen's host in the state of Washington, boarded the train at Spokane. The announcement tonight is taken as a forecast that Mr. Hill will leave the party at Seattle.

Queen Marie bade farewell to Canada at an official dinner tonight and planned to turn homeward. Tomorrow morning she will attend a ceremony at the peace arch at Blaine, Wash., built by Mr. Hill to commemorate 100 years of friendly relations between the United States and Canada. Then she will return to Seattle to begin the return trip across the continent.

The royal party arrived here this afternoon in two continuous trains. Prince Nicolas and Prince Ileana choosing to cross the border from Blaine, where the entourage stopped at Mr. Hill's country home for a waffle breakfast. Queen Marie and the remainder of her following came here on the special train.

Prince Drives Over Border.

Prince Nicolas drove the sport model automobile over rain washed roads a distance of forty-five miles, but came into Vancouver far in advance of his royal mother's train.

Lieut. Gov. R. Randolph Bruce and Minister of Mines William Sloan, representing the provincial premier and mayor of Vancouver, welcomed the Roumanian visitors to British Columbia. A civic luncheon followed by a reception at the Women's Canadian Club comprised the program for the afternoon.

Apparently an armistice has been reached in the warlike relations of Mr. Hill and Maj. Stanley Washburn, said to the queen, and Col. Carroll.

Maj. Washburn was still aboard the "Roumanian" speeching today, although Sam Hill yesterday was reported to have given an ultimatum that either he or Washburn would have to leave the train. The disagreement between Mr. Hill, Maj. Washburn, and Col. Carroll burst into flame at the horse show in Portland, where Mr. Hill was reported to have threatened to slap Washburn's face.

Major Admits Clash.

Other members of the party have been silent or denied that there has been any disagreement in the royal party, but Maj. Washburn admitted he and Mr. Hill had clashed over arrangements of the tour.

Maj. Washburn declines to discuss the "alleged alteration" with Mr. Hill, but offered an explanation of the incident at Portland.

"My sole concern is for the dignity of her majesty, the queen," he said. "As for any alleged alteration with any member of the party I have nothing to say."

He and Sam Hill "had no trouble in Seattle," he asserted.

"I have taken all the blame and indignities since this trip began," he went on. "In reply I have said only three words. When we were in Portland, Mr. Hill and I had a discussion over plans for the Seattle trip. Mr.

MARIE'S VISIT TO BE ONE WHIRL OF SOCIAL ACTIVITY

First official announcement of plans for the entertainment in Chicago of Queen Marie of Roumania as made yesterday by Howard Gillette, secretary of the executive committee appointed by Mayor Dever. Indicated that the visiting sovereign will be lucky to enjoy even the proverbial forty winds during her crowded visit here.

According to the oft-revised and even at present somewhat tentative program, Chicago's welcome to the Roumanian royalty will start off with a rousing reception at the Illinois Central station at 5:30 p. m. next Saturday, when the special train is scheduled to arrive. Augmenting the reception committee in residence at a hotel will be a troop of the 14th U. S. cavalry.

Queen Bakes Waffles.

Confusion attended the breakfast, the host having expected only Queen Marie and her children, but at the last moment the royal party arrived. The official family arrived at intervals, however, until nearly twenty persons were grouped about a table set for four. Queen Marie tried her hand at handling the batter, turning out waffles for Nicolas and Ileana and herself.

They will then be taken to the Lake Shore Drive hotel, where a suite of rooms has been in readiness for days. A small dinner at the Drake hotel will precede the elaborate function planned for the evening, a reception and ball.

Will Be Greeted by Dever.

With this will be an additional honor: a report of army officers the visitors will be conducted to the city hall, where Mayor Dever will extend Chicago's official welcome and present the keys to the city.

They will then be taken to the Lake

REPORT PLUMBER COMBINE PERILS CITY'S METERING

Pact to Loaf and Open Up
More Jobs Is Rumored.

A report that the plumbers hired to install water meters have secretly agreed to loaf on the job in order to force the employment of more members of their union yesterday added to the labor troubles arising from the city's metering program.

The plumbers have entered into an agreement to set only one meter a day instead of four or five, according to the report, despite the urgency of the program which already is far behind the schedule laid down by the war department in allowing Chicago to withdraw 8,500 cubic feet of water a second from Lake Michigan.

Under the terms of the war department permit, issued Sept. 1, 1925, the city is required to install 80,000 meters in ten years. This year's quota is 26,000, but largely due to labor difficulties city officials said only 8,000 have been installed and it is feared that the government impatient over the delay, may clamp down on the city at the end of the year.

Sprague Pits Angers Aldermen.

The latest difficulty which brought out the report of the plumbers' agreement to loaf on the job yesterday, Ald. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, asked the council finance committee for authority to hire 15 more meter setters at $12 a day, an added expense of $5,400 a month. Several aldermen immediately objected.

"Why, this is an outrage," declared Ald. C. S. Eaton [5th]. "I demand an inquiry. One meter a day per man means it will take thirty or more years to complete the job."

"I understand that they were to install at least four or five meters a day," said Ald. R. A. Woodhull [7th], chairman of the committee. "I agree with Ald. Eaton that the city should not permit itself to be held up in this manner."

Call Plumbers Before Committee.

On the motion of Ald. Eaton Mr. Sprague's request was held over. Ald. Woodhull was directed to call the plumbers before the committee at its next meeting.

NICHOLSON HAILS REFERENDA AS BIG VICTORY FOR DRY'S

Voters Proved Loyalty to Prohibition, He Says.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Prohibition has developed into the largest issue facing the national organization that has arisen since the days of slavery. In the opinion of Bishop Thomas J. Nicholson, president of the International president of the Anti-Saloon league.

The delegates will close the convention by attending the Northwestern-Chicago football game Saturday, Nov. 12.

The committee yesterday, Mr. Sprague urged the committee to reconsider.

"The number of installations made this year is considerably below the number specified to meet the schedule set by the ordinance of Sept. 1, 1925," said Mr. Sprague.

"To bring the average up to requirements it seems necessary to employ additional men and also to increase the number of connections per man per day."

The commissioner also said there are 2,400 meters for new buildings to be installed, in addition to the general metering program.

Union Denies Agreement.

The report of the plumbers' pact to slow up their work was denied yesterday by officials of their union. Owning to the difficulties of the work, the men sometimes having to work in water, it is impossible to set any given number of meters a day, Bishop Cruse, union secretary, said.

If the plumbers win in the present meter controversy, it will be their second victory this year, city officials pointed out. Last July, after a bitter battle between the plumbers and the meter setters' union, the city was forced to cease employing the latter group, thereby gaining for the plumbers a $3,000,000 pay roll over the ten year period.

YEARS ago "bucking the line" used to be the only way to play football! But in those days the boys were dressed for it! They wore more different kinds of harness, mudguards and accessories than a sport model jackass! Pulling, tugging, tripping, socking . . . everything went!

But, like everything else, the rules of football have been improved. The old roughstuff is out! "Bucking the line" is gone! The intelligent "open game" is here!

Years ago "bucking the line" used to be the only way to get your groceries! Although women weren't dressed for it, pulling, tugging and every hold went in the clinches of a rush hour crowd!

But, like everything else, the methods of marketing have been improved! There is no more "bucking the line"! No more scrummaging! No more tugging and pulling in crowded stores for intelligent housewives! They save themselves time, trouble and money by remaining on the sidelines in the comfort of their homes. THE TRIBUNE'S PLATFORM FOR METROPOLITAN CHICAGO

1. Make Chicago the First City in the World.
2. Start Building a Subway.
3. Electrify the Railroads.
4. Abolish the Smoke Poll.
5. Build Safe Streets and Highways.
6. Re-establish Constitutional Representation.

DIG THE SUBWAY NOW.

If Mayor Dever's proposal for an immediate start on an initial subway is not merely tactical in the negotiations for a settlement with the traction companies, we congratulate him on taking what from the first has seemed to THE TRIBUNE the effective course. As THE TRIBUNE said at the beginning and frequently repeated, what the city needs is the physical fact of traction relief, and not merely terms with the companies. As we have urged, the city has money to make at once the beginnings of better transportation by beginning to dig the subway we must have, whatever the settlement, may be with vested interests. What the city and people need is relief and the quicker we are on the job to get it the better. The rest must follow. While we are negotiating we ought to be getting on with the plant. All sorts of questions of law and financing have to be settled, but however they are settled we must have the subway! Therefore, by all means, let us get on with the subway.

SUFFERING AT OUR DOOR.

A writer in the Voice of the People called attention recently to the suffering in the Illinois valley as a result of the disastrous autumn floods. Long after the situation became desperate for the farmers in the bottom lands pride restrained them from appealing for help. The hurricane in Florida caused little more suffering, but it made more exciting reading. The misfortunes of our own people were nearly forgotten in the eagerness of Illinois to help the victims of the hurricane.

Winter, our correspondent reminds us, is coming on. Our farmers, many of them tenants, have lost everything they had. Their crops are gone; their homes have been damaged, their money is running short. They are in urgent need of winter clothing and bedding. Chicago, which has never refused an appeal for help for sufferers half a world away, will not neglect the flood victims at its door.

FOOTBALL TO WIN.

Arnold Horween of Harvard has been offered the position of head coach there for a number of years. The term of the contract was not stated. Horween was a Harvard player when the Haughton system was getting good results at Cambridge. After graduation he and his brother, who is helping him at Harvard, played professional football in Chicago as "A. and B. McMahon." They played because they liked the game. They started this season with two licks, which did not seem to be much improvement over Bob Fisher, but followed this with three wins. One was over Dartmouth, and, regardless of what happens the rest of the season—and probably will—Harvard is willing to tie up to its new coaching system for several years.

While Harvard was pulling games out of the fire Yale started dropping them into it, and when the Army walked off with the goal posts the inquiry began in New Haven if a little change in coaches would not be advisable. It isn't the most restful life to have eleven young men take your basket of eggs out on the field and smash them instead of delivering them. What the alumnus wants is a winner. The undergraduate can take a few defeats, but the old boy has his entire week-end spoiled and a bad November can make a sour Christmas for him.

Mr. Stagg of Chicago, in a football article, relates that the late President Harper appeared between halves to a Chicago team which was losing and said that Mr. Rockefeller had been interested in the university, believing it to be a thriving institution. The first half of the game raised a doubt as to whether it was thriving enough. Mr. Rockefeller might not be impressed. The boys went into the second half to play for Chicago and six per cent and won.

A good coach makes a good team, and a good team makes a happy alumni association and a great university. This is a tremendous responsibility on one man. Here in the midwest they have nearly all managed to survive it and retain the undergraduate loyalty, but probably even Rockef. & Co. could not stand two seasons of getting licked by everybody. A good coach is a winner.

SOMETHING NEW IN ARCHITECTURAL EDUCATION.

The recent exhibition at the Arts club of the work of students of the Post-Graduate Institute of Architecture and Landscape Architecture at Lake Forest served to introduce the aims of the institute to the Chicago community. The institute was established because of a widespread feeling that the colleges of architecture were neglecting to impress upon their students the importance of site and landscape in connection with building. At the same time, the courses in landscape were concerned more with horticulture than with the larger problems of design. The Post-Graduate school aims to educate each year a few selected students of architecture and landscape architecture with a view to developing cooperation between the two professions. For the present, the course is limited to a summer term.

Lake Forest has been selected as the site of the Post-Graduate Institute because the north shore offers superior examples of domestic architecture and landscape treatment. The students have been permitted to make studies and measured drawings of the better gardens and buildings. The college at Lake Forest provides rooms for class instruction and Chicago's libraries and museums are readily accessible.

The north shore is not lacking, either, in horrible examples. Students can find good houses spoiled by erection on ill-chosen sites and by ill-conceived landscaping.

It is fortunate for the middle west that the school has been set up here. ours is a young region with much newly found wealth. Our soil is remarkable for the quantity of its building and it might be remarkable, as well, for the quality of it. Much will be gained for the future by impressing the most promising of the younger architects of this region with the importance of harmonious treatment of building and landscape.

MR. CARR'S OPPORTUNITY.

Patrick J. Carr, county treasurer and sheriff-elect, has an opportunity before him in his new office, if he wants to make use of it. For the last few years the office of the sheriff of Cook county has been the scene of a lax administration. Politics ruled, and the county, outside the limits of Chicago and other cities, towns, and villages with capable police departments, has been the stamping ground of bootleggers, gamblers, and criminals of every nature.

It is within Mr. Carr's power to change this if he wants to. He can turn his staff from a mere political machine into an efficient county police force.

The power of a sheriff, as determined by Illinois statute, makes him the most important law enforcement officer of the county. He has rights that no chief of police enjoys. His power extends throughout the county, though custom in Cook county has confined this to the territory outside of Chicago.

The law says the sheriff is the conservator of the peace in his county, and it commands him to keep the peace and prevent crime, and it empowers him to call to his assistance, when necessary, any person or the power of the county.

In Cook county the sheriff exercises control over a large number of subordinates. These subordinates are all appointed by him; the civil service laws do not apply to his office. His pay roll totals $1,170,000 a year for 878 employees, divided as follows: Custodian, county building, 154; custodian, Criminal court building, 45; jail, 118; highway police, 72; deputies, process servers, 25; bailiffs, 140; general, 24.

That is a large force to be under the absolute control of one man. Out of it a sheriff who wanted to clean up the county easily could create a police strength of between 100 and 150, even though that full strength were only temporary. With such a number, and with the co-operation of city and local police, Cook county could be rid, within a week, of most of the crime and vice that now exists in territory ruled solely by the sheriff. It is Mr. Carr's opportunity if he wants to take it.

COURTIERS OF JOURNALISM.

The time was the present but the place was not New York. It was a country club near Minneapolis. The vulgarity of the scene was somewhat relieved by the presence of a group of New York journalists accompanying the Romanian queen and her son and daughter on their American tour. Almost before the surprised New Yorkers knew what was happening the wretched pressmen of Minneapolis were hurling questions at the prince's head. We quote the account of the regrettable incident as furnished by the correspondent of the New York Times:

"Incidentally, during the visit the prince indicated he had not come to America hunting a bride, wealthy or otherwise. The statement was drawn from the prince when, in an unguarded moment, a group of local reporters gathered around him and began questioning him." Their impudence, their impudence, knew no bounds. They asked the prince what he thought of American flappers and whether American girls, generally speaking, were charming. Nor did the incident end there. With a blurb for American journalists we discover that "some one asked him whether he would marry outside royal circles." The royal was probably flamed and seared, but on that point the record is silent. It shows merely that the prince dodged the questions about our girls, but replied directly and tactfully to the one about his own matrimonial intentions. "There are many attractive princesses in Europe," he said.

Careful notes were taken by the New York journalists, who, in due time, passed the dialogue along to the world with the explanation that this was none of their work. They had not been ill-bred as to ask the prince his opinions on a subject of universal interest. They had not obtained from his royal highness any information about his matrimonial intentions. These may have been matters on which he was competent to speak, matters in which a considerable section of the American public was interested, but the New York journalists did not dream of asking him about them. In fact, so far as we can discover, they did not dream of asking him about anything at all.

HITTING AT COURT DELATE.

(Buffalo Courier.)

Perhaps the most promising evidence thus far presented of a growing spirit in the judiciary for slanting unnecessary court delays is contained in the announcement by Chief Justice Taft in the Supreme court that henceforth such delays will not be permitted in the final disposition of criminal cases appealed to that body.

Chief Justice Taft stated that the court had decided to do everything possible to expedite hearings and decisions in criminal cases and prevent delays on its docket. He further said that eighteen such cases now before the court would be advanced for hearing on Nov. 22, and that henceforth the court, on its own motion, would advance the hearings of such cases as rapidly as possible.

Courts depend so largely on precedent that it seems reasonable to believe that this attitude of the highest court in the land toward unnecessary delays in criminal cases will influence judicial proceedings in the country generally. Even though state courts are bound by rules that do not apply to the federal courts, still it is probably true that their customs are responsible for as many unnecessary delays as their fixed rules are. Against such customs the example of the Supreme court can at once be made useful by the lower courts without exceeding the powers which they now possess. A judiciary, determined to expedite justice, will find itself by no means helpless against the delays that rot law of the reasonableness on which it is founded.

NOT ALL SWAMPS BREED MALARIA.

There may be swamps, mosquitoes, warm weather, and no winter kill in combination, and yet no malaria to further vex the people. In north Florida and south Georgia, a few miles south of Waycross, there lies a large and almost impenetrable swamp called the "Okefenokee." In it rises the Suwanee river, known the world over. The Indians called this swamp "Okefenokee" because that was the word for "mosquito" in their language.

The swamp was full of gambusias and other top minnows which live in mosquito larvae. There were almost no wigglers in the water but there must have been plenty of them elsewhere, because the air was full of grown mosquitoes.

It is within Mr. Carr's power to change this if he wants to. He can turn his staff from a mere political machine into an efficient county police force.

The power of a sheriff, as determined by Illinois statute, makes him the most important law enforcement officer of the county. He has rights that no chief of police enjoys. His power extends throughout the county, though custom in Cook county has confined this to the territory outside of Chicago.

The law says the sheriff is the conservator of the peace in his county, and it commands him to keep the peace and prevent crime, and it empowers him to call to his assistance, when necessary, any person or the power of the county.

In Cook county the sheriff exercises control over a large number of subordinates. These subordinates are all appointed by him; the civil service laws do not apply to his office. Chicago's HIGH SPOT

in Altitude — Profit — Prominence

On a Popular Paved Through Street Extending from North to South Limits of Chicago

AJESTIC elms and maples, 40 years old, border both sides of the sidewalk ways in this exceptionally attractive residential district—now offered to the public for the first time.

Forty Year Old Elms and maples border both sides of the sidewalk ways of this unusual residential district. The foresight of the original owners who laid the tract out 40 years ago, has provided today the shade of towering trees in maturity. Cement sidewalks 6 feet wide according to city specifications, water, gas, electricity, sewers—all these improvements are included in the purchase price of the lots. Rigid building restrictions insure that all structures in the district will be of the substantial, permanent type that attracts prosperous and particular people. The district is zoned for homes, apartments and business blocks. Business sites are available on two full section lines. The building activity of Chicago's great southwest development is focused on this tract. Already it is built up on the North, South and East sides.

Over 33,000 Autos Sundays and 15,000 week days by official count, pass this property on the 100-foot concrete boulevard which it fronts. Four sources of surface transportation to downtown Chicago, and suburban stations located near both the North and South boundaries are all within four blocks of this tract. There are 76 suburban trains daily to downtown Chicago with a 38 minute schedule. A station of another railroad is located at the northwest corner of this property. It is reported that this road will soon be equipped with high speed electric trains. The electrified L. C. Railroad is within walking distance. A projected street car line will go directly past the property. Bus lines along the boulevard are anticipated in the near future. The present transportation makes this property quickly accessible now—today. The tremendous volume of Boulevard traffic indicates the increase in value that is bound to come.

We invite you to inspect this attractive business and residential property. We will gladly send one of our automobiles for you at your convenience.

Prominence in Location and natural advantages insures the speedy development of this remarkable community. It is bounded on three sides by over a mile of business frontage. All south side golf courses are within 15 to 30 minutes drive of the property and their proximity adds to its desirability as a residence community. Both Palos Park, containing 9,000 acres, and Ryan Woods Forest Preserves are only a short drive from the property. One of Chicago's public parks is one block away. The easy accessibility of many recreation centers increases materially the value of this tract as a residential district. It is distinguished from the usual apartment district by its magnificent shade trees on both sides of the sidewalk ways, by the famous traffic artery which it fronts on the East and by the business streets both on the North and South boundaries. It is also set apart from subdivision by transportation facilities already available. Chicago's beautiful residential districts "just across the street" indicate the stability and security of the tract as a substantial residence and business district of the highest type. Prominence—permanence—prosperity—are the outstanding characteristics of this property. Wise investors will recognize at once its exceptional promise.

Profit Is Assured in this tract. The prices at which these lots are being sold are exceptionally moderate—terms of purchase are unusually liberal. People who have never before been able to take advantage of real estate opportunities can do so now. Lots right across the street are valued at twice the price we ask for our lots. Chicago's expansion already has pushed up to and surrounds this tract. The lots are ready to build on now. Development from the north has actually reached our property. It is next in the line of Chicago's growth. Free delivery has followed the purchase of our property. Just ahead of development it always will. And Chicago's development is today touching our property. Tomorrow—it will be a district of substantial apartments—prosperous business houses—and high property values.

Elevation Means Sunshine —and Dry Basements

Chicago's High Spot is 40 feet higher than the lake level. It is elevated above the fogs and low-lying smoke palls that shut off the sunshine from downtown Chicago. Sunshine means healthy children. Trees are greener, plants thrive better, flowers bloom with brighter colors in this high land.

Water Runs Down Hill—Chicago's High Spot will have no flooded basements—no damp, unhealthy houses and stores. Heavy downpours of rain will leave no bad effects.

High and Dry, sunny and healthful, Chicago's High Spot has every essential of the ideal building location.

POWERS HOLDING BIG STICK OVER RUSSIA-STALIN

Reds Not Victorious Yet, Soviet Chief Admits.

MOSCOW, Nov. 5.—(UPI)—Admission that the Bolsheviks cannot yet boast of a victory for socialism within Russia on account of the menace of foreign intervention was made by M. Stalin in a four hour speech at the communist party conference, the text of which appeared only today. "But," he added, "certainly we are on the way toward its realization. I am sure socialism will be victorious here if we follow the principles of Lenin and discard those of Trotsky."

Stalin, who is virtually in control of the communist party in Russia, pictured America as supplanting Britain "as the head of the imperialistic state and as dominating the world." This, he said, was a situation fraught with danger and might precipitate a repetition of the 1914 calamity.

Town War on Trotsky.

The speaker turned his heaviest fire on Trotsky, Zinovieff, and Kameneff, saying that the communist party "will wage merciless war against these rebels until they reform their ways."

Broken against the steel-like unity of the party, but not destroyed," he said, "the opposition now conceals its plans, how to rise again should the economic situation of the country become worse."

M. Stalin was referring to the recent action of Trotsky and the other members of the opposition within the Communist party in renouncing their campaign and promising to abide by the rules of those in power.

M. Kameneff spoke after Stalin in a three hour defense of the opposition. Frequently he was interrupted by deafening cheers, and he threatened twice to leave the tribune.

Points to Danger Within.

The danger to the creation of socialism within Russia, M. Kameneff charged, rested not alone in foreign intervention as Stalin contended, but mostly in the steadily growing wealth of the middle class persons in the country responsible for and adhering to the new economic policy, and in the international bourgeoisie.

POINCARE FLOODS MART WITH PAPER AND FRANC SINKS

Premier Sees Peril in Skyrocketing.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—(UPI)—Operations by the French government against its own money, to check a too rapid rise of the franc, were announced by Premier Poincare today before the finance committee of the chamber of deputies. He told the committee that he was obliged to take this action in order to prevent skyrocketing, which involved greater danger to France's economic position.

Stabilization, the premier said, remained the policy of the government, but it was also an essential part of the policy that he should disclose nothing of the plan, except to say that the government would feel its way carefully in an endeavor to avoid pitfalls always in the path which led to the stabilization of a country's money.

Poincare Optimistic.

M. Poincare, who is also the minister of finance, said the general financial situation was most satisfactory, considering the conditions under which the government undertook the task of renovation.

The dollar was strong from the opening to the close of the bourse today. The closing price was 30.32 francs to the dollar. This was attributed to an increase of 1,000,000,000 francs ($30,000,000) in the circulation.

France's debt settlement with the United States is declared to be more favorable to this country than the settlement with Great Britain in the report of the subcommittee on debts of the chamber of deputies finance committee.

M. Darlac, chairman of the subcommittee for Finance, said the Paris reparations plan will care for the debt payments and leave a surplus of $100,000,000 for 1927, this surplus to be increased to $125,000,000 in 1928.

Approve Debt Report.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service) PARIS, Nov. 5.—The chamber of deputies' committee on internalized war debts today accepted, by five votes to two, the report of Deputy Adrian Darlac, the chairman, on the Washington and London agreements.

KIDNAPED MAIL CLERK IS FREED; POUCHES ROBBED

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 5.—(UPI)—Truman M. King, mail clerk, kidnaped at Hibbing late today by bandits who stole mail he was carrying, was released by the bandits on the outskirts of Minneapolis tonight.

King was released by the bandits and called for a telephone at once and called police. He was taken to a district police station, where he told federal post-office inspectors of the holdup.

King was unable, however, to add much to meager descriptions of the bandits and attempts to carry on the hunt for them were greatly handicapped as a result.

The registered parcels had all been examined. Postal inspectors attempted to identify the packages with a view to obtaining an evaluation of the loot.

DEADS DEAD AT BANQUET.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—(UPI)—Dr. W. E. Fothergill, noted gynecologist, dropped dead last night after making a humorous speech at the university banquet. His last words were: "I have enjoyed tonight one of the best dinners I can remember."

PHYSICIANS GIVE M'KINLEY THREE WEEKS TO LIVE

Martinsville, Ind., Nov. 5.—(UPI)—Death of Senator William H. McKinley, who has been confined to a sanitarium for several months, is only a matter of weeks, according to Dr. Robert H. Egbert, superintendent of the sanitarium.

Dr. Egbert said that in his judgment Senator McKinley might "live for perhaps three weeks if no complications develop."

Senator McKinley was operated on in Baltimore for an abdominal disorder. His strenuous campaigning during the primary resulted in a relapse.

LEAGUE DISARM PARLEY ENDS SIX MONTHS OF TALK

No Agreement Reached on Any Item of Agenda.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
GENEVA, Nov. 5.—Six months of stormy parleys among the military, naval, and aerial experts of a score of countries will bring to an end to-night when the subcommittee of the preparatory disarmament commission of the league of nations completed discussions on the seven point agenda.

The report which, thanks to the persistency of Hugh Gibson, chief American delegate, and Lord Robert Cecil of England, includes all the divergent viewpoints rather than the majority findings, will be circulated among the various governments, after which the plenary preparatory disarmament commission will meet either in February or April to receive the discussions of the league council meantime not taken over the formation of the agenda.

The economic subcommission will meet later in November and the council committee will take up the consideration of the Finnish, French, and other security programs in December.

France Favors Early Parley.

Divergences of opinion regarding the future procedures developed, with the French pressing for a conference in 1927, while the United States and Great Britain, supported by the U. S. and armament officials, were not inclined to move. The French insistence on speed-up supposedly is based on its desire to incorporate its imperatively necessary reduction of its military establishment, which is being forced by the political and economic situation, into any eventual agreement.

While it can rightly be stated that complete agreement was not secured on a single item during the half a year of debates, considerable advances have been attained. According to the American delegation, the U. S. has been given distinctly encouraged by certain phases of the deliberations of the subcommittee, particularly with regard to the form of the report, which will be a single report setting forth all phases of the discussions instead of the viewpoint of the majority as originally intended.

American Pleased Over Naval Plans.

The Americans also are pleased with the unanimity among the big naval powers for the comparison of naval tonnage by categories rather than the total tonnage as demanded by the French. Concluding, the American delegation says, "We are gratified with the progress made, which was to an extent which did not seem possible, even to the most optimistic, a few months ago."

The American delegation plans to return for further meetings. This was indicated in the farewell speech of Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones.

DAY PASSES WITH NO FATALITIES IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

For the first time in many days, no deaths due to automobile accidents were reported yesterday. The year's total of motor fatalities remained 756.

August Wetteran, 54 years old, 2727 West 24th street, was severely injured when he was struck by an automobile at 22d and street and Wentworth avenue. The automobile was driven by John Meyerhofer, 22 years old, 2324 Kasmer street.

When crossing Clark street near Folk street last night, Miss Kate Kelly, 14, of 7634 Elmwood avenue, was knocked down by an automobile driven by L. A. Polk. Her head was injured and she was taken to St. Luke's hospital.

Two automobiles crashed at Cass and Superior streets and David Bernstein, riding in one automobile, and H. K. Kaiser, 28 years old, 1646 North Central Park avenue, driving the other, were both slightly hurt.

Children's Book Week to Open Tomorrow; Some of Best Listed

By Jessie Jay Van Cleve.
(American Library Association.)

Tomorrow will usher in Children's Book Week, an annual event the nation's observance of which is growing in influence and importance each year.

The movement, in a way, expresses the persistent hope of lovers of both children and books that by systematic effort in the reading habit we may eventually abolish the spiritual poverty which deadens and dwarfs the lives of millions today.

The activities in connection with the week are designed to stimulate public interest in the matter of what is often spoken of as "good" books for children. The use of the word "good" in this connection we believe is unfortunate. It is one of the most superficial words to be found in discussions of the subject. To many people it suggests books of a moralistic, descending tone. Such books once flooded the market, but are no longer considered the type through which to influence juvenile minds. The change was brought about largely through the rejection of the old type of book by the children themselves, who are really the final arbiters of what they read.

The appeal made to the parents and friends of children during the week will awaken a desire in many to do something to help the good work along. These people, however, are usually confronted with the problem of how to select the right type of reading matter from the overwhelming mass of books advertised as children's books. A statement of certain principles and standards as a basis in the selection of their purchases may be of service.

We believe it is now generally recognized that certain elements are necessary to books within the range of the interests and understanding of children, and these are: Action, human interests, and imaginative appeal. The relatively primitive forms of enjoyment connected with story, color, rhythm, action, and humor are found more important than those related to structure, form, principles of words, etc. Children are quick to note the contrasts, not the abstracts.

From among the many interesting new books the following short selection has been made:

The stories in "Winnie-the-Pooh" [Dutton], A. A. Milne's new book, are told by the author to his small son, Christopher Robin, and his teddy bear of the hyphenated name from which the book gets its title. The book is a collection of active characters in rhyme, sales, together with Piglet, Rabbit, Owl, Kangaroo and her baby Roo. While these stories may not have so wide an appeal as did the delectable verses in "When We Were Very Young," they will be sure to please many readers both old and young.

Alphabet books are always in demand and rarely is a more attractive one offered than "An Alphabet Book for Boys and Girls" by Rachel Field [Doubleday]. In this little volume each letter stands for a child's name or a picture of a boy or girl, and verse for every one.

Maud Lindsay in "The Toy Shop" [Lothrop] writes about one that was kept by a dear little old lady who always seemed to know just what kind of a toy would suit every customer, and to show how well she succeeded, here are the stories of the toys that were sent from the shop and the children who received them.

"Fifty Country Rhymes for Children" is the work of E. L. M. King [Appleton]. It is an attractive little book, although unillustrated.

We are often amazed at the amount of definite mechanical knowledge some of our very young modern children possess, for we fail to realize how familiar have grown the devices and machines run by steam, gas, and electricity. The book "Little Machinery" by Mabel Liddell [Doubleday], is original and artistic, thoroughly modern in concept and design.

People interested in children's reading have long expressed the wish that authors possessing knowledge of strange life in unfamiliar lands might write of it for young people. Helen Teas Tee-Van lived for many months as an artist in one of William Beebe's tropical research stations in

New Books from
MINTON, BALCH"The Dark Dawn"
Is Not Impressive
Like "Wild Geese"By Fanny Butcher.
"The Dark Dawn," by Martha Ostenso (Dodd, Mead & Co.).

Martha Ostenso was a name nobody had ever heard in the literary business when "Wild Geese" was published.

With that prize novel she emerged from obscurity and became a success one that every one's eyes were upon. Her second book,

"The Dark Dawn," has just appeared. The public is making a noise about it again.

Is she a real novelist or just a teller of a sensational story? What has she for the future?

The answer to those questions are so patently in the second book that the reader ought really to be left alone to find them out for himself. But we are a guide, philosopher, and friend to our readers—

In the first place, "Wild Geese" was a sensational book. Its power lay in the fact that it was spectacular.

It was written in a competition which included the production of a movie and for what it was intended to be it was a tour de force.

The very lack of skill which Miss Ostenso showed in the writing of the book added to its power as a picture of primitive ruthlessness. There were good "moments" in it, and there were pictures with a sense of certain obvious theatricalism that made them very effective.

"Dark Dawn" is not a sensational story. It is rather the story of a slow disintegration of a gay spirit held in the ruthless grip of a hard woman.

It is a theme which is subtle, not obvious. And it is a theme entirely without the powers of Miss Ostenso. She has not the skill to make her readers feel that her heroine is ruthless.

She does not make her readers believe that she is a tyrant. She does not make them like her. The old man in "Wild Geese" did live, but that was because she didn't make the slightest attempt to make him subtle. He was just what his actions said he was.

The hero of "The Dark Dawn" is a drifter and you can't translate a drifter's moods into hands and feet, and coherent movements. The tyranny of the old man in "Wild Geese" was a physical tyranny. The tyranny of the woman in "The Dark Dawn" is a spiritual one and it is simply outside the power of the author to make the thing real.

She has not done "Wild Geese" again. There is nothing gaudily grim about "The Dark Dawn" as there was about "Wild Geese." Neither is there anything at all impressive about "The Dark Dawn." It is just a story of a farm community in the north, not told with any distinction and not in itself an especially interesting story.

But there is a certain facility of story telling about it which will please the mob. The situations are all so obvious and so in the tradition of the popular novel that you can almost guess what is going to be on the next page. But the public likes that kind of thing, and it will probably find "The Dark Dawn" to its taste.

"Men and Horses," by Ross Sante.

[Century.]

Stories about cowboys and their best friends, their horses, their roving in the country, and their ranches, racing among wild horses, and with the tang of the real west in them are these in "Men and Horses" by Ross Sante.

The author is also the illustrator, and if horses have ever done many things not recorded in his drawings they haven't done them in the sight of man. There is something strangely more thrilling than any rodeo about these tales—actual day by day conflicts of man with his environment.

"The Design of Small Properties," by M. B. Bottomley. [Macmillan.]

The person who has a little bit of ground and a desire to make the most of it may have found a good way.

According to the author of this illuminating book, for the great landscape architects don't want to bother with the expenditures of a few hundreds and no one has written anything much to help the amateur do his own designing. This book fills that need.

Back yards only thirty feet by fifty feet are written about with as much enthusiasm as large but not expansive country estates, for Mr. Bottomley keeps to his subject and concerns himself with small properties entirely.

Rider Haggard Is
Out in 2 VolumesBy Sidney Dark.
[Doubleday, Doran.]

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—Shortly after Rider Haggard's death, eight months ago, Mr. Charles Longman, the publisher, opened a panel which had been in the carriage of the author for twelve years. The panel contained an manuscript of Haggard's autobiography, which has been published here in two volumes. It is the life story of a kindly man whom many never saw. "I have met many men," he says, "and have seen many lands, I have known many emotions—all of them I think except that of hate." In his good qualities and his limitations, Rider Haggard was essentially English. In the English way, when he was nineteen, he went to South Africa and stayed there for several years accumulating the material for the background of his novels. It was the success of "Treasure Island" that caused Haggard to write "King Solomon's Mines," the manuscript of which was read and praised by Andrew Lang, as when encouragement he owed a great deal.

Perhaps the most interesting thing in these volumes of memoirs is the incidental confirmation that the Theodore of the "Yellow Peril" of Germany, the father of Kaiser Wilhelm, which has been carefully guarded since his death in a safe at Windsor castle, can be translated into English and will be published here in a few weeks.

BLACK BUTTERFLIES

By ELIZABETH JORDAN

SYNOPSIS.

Doris Maxwell, the wealthiest young woman in Grandon, brings upon herself the curse of the town by her association with the Black Butterflies, a club made up of social outlaws. Her attorney, Orson Hatch, remonstrates with her and advises her to take on a lawyer. Dorinda tells him that she will not give up the freedom that was denied her by her father's lifetime.

David Goddard, his clock, out to Dorinda's house with some papers that he measures and the house is impressed by the young law student. Dorinda is worried by the group about her and calls on Norma Davis, an old friend, in hopes of keeping their friendship alive. Norma tells Dorinda that her father, Judge Davis, is to their friendship. She asks Dorinda why she doesn't marry and Dorinda gives the same answer she gave to her attorney.

David telephones to Goddard and asks him to call at her house that night. She is to marry her, the arrangement to be strictly a matter of business. He refuses at first but later he tells her he'll do it. They are married quietly on the Saturday following Thanksgiving off on a quiet road in Dorinda's residence. Dorinda insists on returning to Grandon in a storm and quickly recovers when she suggests they wait until the winds are better condition. They start out, each seeking his own fortune, and, crashing into another machine, and awakens in a hospital.

Before leaving the hospital David tells Dorinda that they're to have a divorce. Dorinda asks for a month's grace and David agrees. Dr. Warren is on his way and David tells him that his arm will have to be broken again, as it is failing

A GLOOMY PROSPECT.

At the table, David's failure to eat reawakened Dorinda's suspicions. He had the luncheon with Kimball and gave in detail an elaborate menu. "I wonder if you have had those things?" Dorinda said with the candor that had caught from the Butterflies. "You're thinking of some feast of yours you have read about, or of the supper that was spread on the girl's eve in 'The Eve of St. Agnes.' I believe you two have been cooking something. What's the matter with him?" she added sharply, catching a look passed between the men. David answered.

"My arm has been bothering me a little," he said causally, "and we're going to have a pretty picture made of it after dinner. Warren wants it for a picture."

"O, then something is wrong?" Dorinda cried. Her eyes met. He had never seen quite that look in her before, and it was certainly bad luck for those two. Warren began to talk with the old man used to meeting "moments" in life, and Dorinda said no more. She was almost as little as her husband, and when the four had left the dinner which only the nurse and physician had enjoyed, she had a question before they were out of the dining room.

"Are they coming here to take the X-ray?"

"No, I've arranged to take Goddard to Wheeler's office." Warren told her. "He may have an uncomfortable night, and there's a big chance that some surgical work early in the morning. So I'm going to ask you"—

Mrs. John W. Gary, president of the board, wore pale blue chiffon, embroidered in gold and silver beading. Other members of the group who have been working for the ball included Mrs. William H. Mitchell, whose cloth of gold gown was appliqued with velvet brocade; Mrs. Lester Aronoff, who wore an ivory satin bodice with gold mesh; Mrs. Richard S. Fulton, who wore silver and rose brocade; Miss Anita Blair in orchid satin with a trailing chiffon scarf of the same shade; Mrs. Edward R. Litzinger in green embroidered in red and green sequin flowers; Mrs. Frank Hibbard in black chiffon, designed with gold braid, and Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland in old blue chiffon for velvet.

A corps of debutantes in abbreviated Harlequin attire of red and white satin, with triangular hats of marie satin, vended cigarette and flowers from door to door. These included Miss Helen Farnum, Miss Mary Louise Fenton, Miss Elizabeth Drake, Miss Katherine Thorne, Miss Ellen Borden, Miss Dorothy Rend, Miss Glee Louise Viles, Miss Margaret Sinclair, Miss Corinne McVoy, Miss Jane Schutte, Miss Ellen Stuart, Miss Georgiana Whitcomb, Miss Dorothy Reay, Miss Emily Otis, Miss Jane Lynn, Miss Virginia Wilson, Miss Dorothy Michelson, and Miss Betty Scriven. Players from some of the plays now in town gave a supper dance program.

Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, Miss Margaret James and Mrs. Charles C. Cheneau; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence M. Viles, Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher M. Durbin, Miss Edwin Litzinger, Mrs. Theodore A. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Henderson, and Miss Betty Scriven. Players from some of the plays now in town gave a supper dance program.

Miss Katherine Bower Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Miller announced the engagement of their niece, Miss Katherine Bower Miller of the Seneca, to Frederick W. Woodruff of Joliet, Ill. No date has been set for the wedding.

Moses Wentworth in black velvet with silver beads; Mrs. Edwin W. Hyeron in pale green chiffon over silver clutch; Mrs. Aldis J. Browne in flesh crepe; Mrs. Thomas R. Lyon in beige lace; Mrs. Francis T. A. Junkin in rose and silver beads; Mrs. Russell P. Kelley in black chiffon with an orchid at her shoulder, and Miss Edith Walker in white lace over a cream slip.

Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Hinde, who did not expect you for a week.

—chucks again—but that'll do it," David insisted, while his pale face was under a sudden realization. More money to be borrowed from Hatch! He was feeling physically ill from the combined pain and strain of this new work.

"I'll run you down in my car," Warren told his patient, "and we'd better right away. It won't take long, and we'll probably be back before Mrs. Ward goes upstairs. I want you to get to bed early and take a dose that'll give you some sleep."

Dorinda followed them out into the hall where the coats and hats of the day hung. Bracing her hands against David's chest, she stood close to him, looking up.

"I'm most awfully sorry you've got to go through this," she said in a low voice, and that I can't help even a little bit."

—and in the background the doctor and nurse considerately turned their backs while they made their plans for the morning.

One thought obsessed David as he walked out of the hours of killing feet. One thought obsessed David as he walked out of the hours of killing feet. One thought obsessed David as he walked out of the hours of killing feet. One thought obsessed David as he walked out of the hours of killing feet.

"Forget it," Warren suggested. "You won't need money except for the rent, and I'll pay him and put the charge on my bill. I'll pay Wheeler, then stop fussing, and quiet down."

It was easier to stop fussing after that. Nevertheless, the victim made a mental calculation. Ten dollars, say, for the X-ray; ten more, probably, for medical expenses; twenty-five to Warren for the pleasure of having his arm re-set; fifteen or twenty more for professional services; and so on, not to speak of a couple of days' wages for Miss Allen—he saw that it wasn't more than $50.

The whole business would snare another hundred for him. How bad it was to be poor, and that idiotic short-sightedness he had shown in his entire savings bank account in that giddy farce of a courtship! Coming back over the weeks preceding his marriage, he did not see how he had acted differently. He stiffened into attention. Warren was in a question.

"You're not worrying about this thing, are you?"

"I don't look that way," Warren conceded, "but of course—"

His step at Wheeler's door made it possible for him to stop his sentence as he did, which was a relief to him. "He's all ready," he announced, with an appreciative glance at the specialist's lighted windows, and he led away with the buoyancy of the onlooker in such situations.

Wheeler proved gratifyingly expeditious. It was after nine when they reached his office, not yet ten when they left it, and only slightly past ten when they reentered the Maxwell house.

"I want to see you in your crib before I leave," Warren announced. "but there's no room."

They found Dorinda, still staring with resentful eyes into the restful depths of her room.

"I wanted to stay up till you came," she complained, "but Miss Allen wouldn't let me."

"I'm afraid there might be some delay; and she's very nervous tonight," she added, "blaming herself for everything, of course," she added to the doctor, in an undertone.

"It's the best place for 'em both," Warren reluctantly agreed after he had fully explained the situation. "When you remember that it was only yesterday you got your injuries, perhaps you'll realize that you're still invalids. So follow the poet's advice—kiss her good-by and go," said David.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question asked for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question F. I. Brown, 1405 East 79th street, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Would you vote for a woman mayor?

Where Asked.

Clark street at Randolph.

The Answers.

Mrs. Nona E. Sharp, 7048 South Wood street, real estate saleswoman—Yes. I would if I could vote for a woman or a man. Catharine Waugh McCullough's caliber. Really, I am such a busy woman and so completely sold on Chicago that this city, regardless of who it may, looks good to me.

Fred Sexton, 4644 Lake Park avenue, real estate—No. I would not. Men are better than women for that work. That's no place for a woman. A woman's place is in the home—it used to be; I don't know for sure how I would have to see Chicago have a woman mayor.

Miss Grace Griffin, 4644 Lake Grove avenue, bookkeeper—I'd vote for a woman for mayor, but I would. They are just as much there in power as men are, and that's not saying anything much. On the other hand, women should not have to run for that office and they won't unless politics gets to us.

Miss Missy, 6543 Cottage Grove avenue, bookkeeper—I'd vote for a woman for mayor, but I would. They are just as much there in power as men are, and that's not saying anything much. On the other hand, women should not have to run for that office and they won't unless politics gets to us.

Fred Sherman, 3895 Drexel boulevard, salesman—I can't say I would. I am not. Men are better than women for that work. That's no place for a woman. A woman's place is in the home—it used to be; I don't know for sure how I would have to see Chicago have a woman mayor.

Miss Peggy Perkins, Chattanooga, Tenn., home girl—I would not because I believe men are the more competent in handling the responsibilities of that position. Women look to men for protection, and we think of a mayor's office as endowed with something of that same protective quality.

Clubwomen to Free Struggling Genius from Chicago Attics

With the rent three weeks overdue, the larger empty, and the grocery bill unpaid, palette and chisel are likely to be dropped for the pickax or type-writer, with the virtue of a regular weekly stipend and three square meals a day.

At least that's the way Mrs. Edward S. Clark figured about the talented youth of Chicago and Cook county and she found the presidents of 180 clubs agreed with her so thoroughly that they formed a conference, over which she now presides, and resolved to do something about it.

What they did—or what they propose to do—was announced yesterday by Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Theodore T. Karp, who has done much toward promoting sports, art and the public schools. It comprehend a financial plan through which latent genius may be fostered and developed while allowing the recipient of such aid to remain self-supporting.

After a search of this vicinity for promising talent in drama, literature, and music, it is proposed to supply and endow the 180 clubs for those selected, following an elimination tryout before the conference to obtain scholarships at various dramatic and art schools for those most fitted to improve these opportunities: to produce plays by unknown playwrights who show promise in the Kenneth Sawyer Goodman theater, and to produce individually the successes discovered, placing the profits therefrom in fund to perpetuate the work of developing genius.

She's Broad Minded
Mother, but Flappers
Set Her Wondering

BY DORIS BLAKE

The mother of a boy of 18 came in to see me the other day on a social call. In the course of our conversation she told me about a party celebrated at her home by the club to which the son belongs. She is one of the finest women, the most wise and sympathetic mother a child could ever hope to claim.

Married at the age of 18, she knew little about earning a living. For years she nursed a sick husband, who eventually left her a widow with two girls, beside the boy already mentioned. To me, anyway, there is something so tremendously heroic about these women who are forced to play father and mother to a young family that they leave me thoroughly humiliated.

Perhaps those of us who are denied the impetus to accomplishment that widows with children have are, after all, the ones deserving of sympathy. It would seem so from the amazing things, some of them have done with no preparatory training in business life. My hat is certainly off to them—and particularly to this lucky little woman who has given her children an excellent education and a sympathetic companionship that keeps her dear and close to them.

The son is a dear boy—but 18 is only 18, after all, and in this age of thoughtless youth the problem of the younger generation revolves around him, if not in him.

Her home is a club house for the boy's friends. The mother is there to welcome them, to keep them so occupied with legitimate amusement that things do not go on under her roof that other mothers with less control of their children have reported to me, refer to the necking and drinking current in certain social circles of the young.

"Even so," the widow confided, "they're hard to manage at times. And their ways are starting to one brought up in another age and atmosphere, imagining the boys of the club, all of my son's age, arriving at the house without girls and some of them telephoning at least a seventh hour to come over. And imagine girls coming in response to the late invitation! Some of the guests arrived at 9:30, some a little later. Just as good children as ever lived—but some of the girls trying to play the role of hard boiled, sophisticated women of the world and doing it most unsuccessfully. But what do they try?" she asks.

Twelve o'clock came with no sign of the party breaking up. One o'clock followed and still no thought of home. You cannot order them or never suggest that they ought to be on their way. At 1:30 the mother of the girl announced that she had a headache the next night so she was going home EARLY tonight. She lived in a suburb easily an hour and a half away.

It was 3 a. m. when the mother had the house cleaned up and the dishes away. And she was due on her job the next morning at 9.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Be Agreeable.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have kept steady company with a young woman for the last six months.

"Last night she told me she could not go just alone with me.

"I care very much for her and would like your advice on what to do.

"Leo."

Agree to her going out with other boys, Leo, and do not let it make any difference in your attitude toward her. If anything, be more attentive than ever—thoughtful of her every wish. Make her care more for you than any of the others.

Buddy, aged 4, insisted on writing a letter to his friend Betty and scribbled away diligently for almost an hour.

His mamma, wishing him to go and play, remarked, "Run along now, dearie. You know you don't know how to write anyway."

"Well, Betty don't know how to read either," said Buddy. C. G. P.

Little George, tired of taking care of the fretful baby, called to her mother, "O, mother, the baby's cryin'."

"Yes, I hear him," said mother, "but it is not near his feeding time."

"W-well, goodness," returned the child, "couldn't we try to stop his noise by just givin' him a small sample?"

Many Parties Given
for Mrs. Maugham,
Miss Alice Archibald

BY NANCY R.

Two such fêted ladies as we have had in our midst for the last fortnight when I announced early last month that Mrs. Somer Maugham was to pay a visit to the heart of the world. I didn't know that Miss Alice C. Archibald was coming with her, and that Chicago's fashionable hostesses would have a chance to entertain two such characters at once. But, now, if you were allowed a peep at their engagements books, you'd see that they lunch, dine, and dine out nearly every day.

Mrs. Maugham is to be here through the winter; Miss Archibald, unfortunately for us, returns to New York Monday, whence she sails soon for France, where she has made her home for some years.

Among those who are giving parties for this popular pair are Mrs. John Chapman, Mrs. Joseph Coleman, Mrs. Francis Johnson, Mrs. C. H. Chadwick, Mrs. Donald McLean, Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin, and Mrs. Hollister Stur-

By the bye, the tea which was mentioned yesterday morning in this column as being given by Mrs. Sturges tomorrow afternoon, is to take place on Monday the 13th at the Churchill. It seems that Monday is the birthday of the Sturges' daughter, Betty, and that the party is really for her. Betty has come over from London to be with her parents this winter and is showing her bow to Chicago society while she's here. She is a most attractive young person, tall and slender, with red hair and sparkling brown eyes, and her mother is already realizing that having a popular daughter at home doesn't mean so much of her.

Day's News in Society

Two more candidates for the privileges and responsibilities of the social season were introduced formally yesterday at the Hotel Sherman. Misses member of Mrs. Thomas G. Milled of 254 Lincoln Park West, received with her mother and her sister, Mrs. Dwight Smith, from 4 to 7 o'clock at the Fortieth, and Miss Georgians Whitcomb was presented at a tea at the Arts club given by her mother, Mrs. William Carl Whitcomb of the Lake Shore Drive.

Receiving with Mrs. Whitcomb were Mrs. D. Grant Kingerly, Mrs. Elizabeth Hubbard Stillman, and Mrs. Charles R. Dickerson. Assisting debutantes were Miss Jane Condon, Miss Ruth King, Miss Helen Farum, Miss Martha Ferguson, Miss Mary Jacoby, Miss Mary Lake, Miss Jean Logan, Miss Vernon Louer, Miss Elsie McGuire, Miss Margaret Sinclair, Miss Betty McLean, Miss Quan, and Miss Louise Vilas. Miss Whitcomb was a Paris model of peach meringue embroidered in silver and rhinestones. The receiving line was stationed in the oval room near the entrance of the Arts club and tea was served in the lounge.

Mrs. Milled was wearing pink and gold brocade and she carried a bouquet of pink roses. Assisting to receive and the tea table were Mrs. Morris Gless, Mrs. Henry Mary Gardner, Miss Schuttler, Miss Mary Gardner, Miss Louise Juergens, Miss Jean Logan, Miss Mary Lake, Miss Anne Croft, Miss Judith Bodie, Miss Jane Geden, Miss Elsie McGuire, Miss Pauline Wolff, Miss Margaret Sinclair, Miss Beatrice Burnet, and Miss Virginia Headburn.

Society football fans who are to give or attend luncheon parties at the Sherman hotel before the Chicago-Illinois football game this afternoon include Mr. and Mrs. Lester Armour, Edward F. Swift Jr., the Hempstead Washburns, Mr. and Mrs. C. Groveson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams, Mrs. Edward R. Littsinger, Mrs. Edwin Littsinger, Mr. and Mrs. August Hettler, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peacock, Gustavus F. Swift, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Davis.

The opera box committee of the Friends of Opera has issued cards for luncheons to take place next Tuesday at the Arts club with Mrs. Clarence Norton Goodwin and Mrs. Frederick T. Vaux as hostesses.

The popular society fashion show is to be used as one of the entertainment for the Arden Shore military ball at the Hotel Sherman Friday evening, Nov. 26. The girls who have been recruited to act as mannequins include Miss Beatrice Burnet, Miss Katherine Cremer, Miss Dorothy Rend, Miss Leanne Lerner, Miss Jean Logue, Miss Helen Farum, Miss Charlotte Drum, Miss Katherine Thayer, Miss Pauline Wolf, Miss Ruth Elting, Miss Mildred Allen, Miss Jane Schuttler, Miss Calvin A. Smith (Jeanette Reynolds), and Mrs. Charles R. Lindy III.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner A. Mead have moved into their new residence at Barrington, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. W. David Owens of Lake Forest are to depart in a few days to spend a week in New York City. They plan to see Mrs. Owens' father, John R. Thompson, and to attend the Harvard-Yale football game.

Miss Mary Belville Dickinson and her daughter, Miss Rose Dickinson, have returned to Chicago for the winter and have taken an apartment at 2 East Elm street.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—The secretary of agriculture and Mrs. Jardine gave a dinner for a luncheon this evening for the women of the department and their wives, and the assistant secretaries and their wives.

The Swiss minister, Marc Peter, departed today for a visit in St. Louis, Chicago and Detroit, to return the middle of the month.

Mr. Edward Clifford, formerly of Chicago, gave a luncheon today in her winter old home in Georgetown for her maid, Miss Helen Clifford, who will be presented to society formally at a tea on Nov. 27.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Alexander gave a dinner party tonight at Pierre's for Friends. Miss Achille Murat of Mrs. Dr. and Mrs. Constan of Buenos Aires, McDonald Hawks and Jerome Landfield.

The Duchess of Hamilton and Branson, who has been at the Hotel Hamilton and Branson with her daughter, Lady Hamilton, has gone to Washington for a week or several days.

Miss William L. Fuller, who is at the Plaza before opening her home at 5th avenue, gave a luncheon to the hotel.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

Request Cabbage Recipes.

Probably fifty ways of cooking cabbage have been given in this column, in fifteen years, but one correspondent has not seen one, and wants in particular to know how to prepare a cabbage for stuffing. To do this remove the outside and inner leaves of the head of cabbage. Cut off the stem on the cabbage will stand squarely when set up for a vegetable centerpiece, if you choose to use it for that. After it has been trimmed and washed, steam it until tender. When it is tender take two forks and pull the leaves out and then roll them in a bit, first cutting out the center so as to leave space for a cup of stuffing, some of which may also be put in between the leaves. Some melted butter may be poured over, and it may be heated up, if necessary, after the stuffing has been put in. With good work it may look like a real head of cabbage.

A minor for stuffing cabbage—all vegetable—which may also be used in many other ways is: One medium sized onion, one stem of celery, one half a green pepper—all cut fine—and then one-half cup of ground carrot. The amounts may be doubled to suit. Put these to cook in a frying pan with a little fat. Cover and cook gently for half an hour, without browning. Then add one cooked beet, chopped. To make this mixture exceptionally something if it is to be served by itself is to cut up two slices of bacon fine, with the scissors, and putting it in a cold frying pan stir it until the bacon bits are a nice light brown, then put in the hash and mix.

A cabbage filled with beautifully seasoned mashed potato which may be enriched with an egg yolk—the cabbage steamed tender first—and then heated with butter and browned lightly makes a pleasant service of vegetables. With fine bread and butter, and cheese, and a beverage a good service of stuffed cabbage may be supplemented to make a meal.

To cook cabbage until it is red is a mistake. Poorly cooked cabbage is altogether too common. One may learn to cook it so that it ranks with the aristocratic cauliflower, but you must have the mind to do so. It is not entirely unusual to find poor cooks believing that their work is good, even model.

Hard to Make Ends Meet.

"I wonder if any of your readers have a coat she no longer needs for a girl of 16. Any pieces of carpet would be appreciated, also I have seven children and find it hard to make ends meet." Mrs. J. M."

This is just one of the many cases where last year's coat could be utilized. If this young woman may have yours, she'll be well taken care of for the winter.

Offer of Clothes.

"I have a winter coat, medium size, to give away. It is black with a fur collar and is in good condition. I also have a black cape and black velvet dress, size 24, to give." Mrs. H."

Have you been wondering where your winter coat would be coming from? This offer might solve your problem.

A Long Bloused Bodice Makes This Frock Chic

by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—A short skirt that flares beneath hips swathed as tightly as those of a Spanish dancer—here is the most authoritative silhouette of autumn. It is most often achieved, perhaps, by a wide girdle, but occasionally the responsibility for those molded lines is assumed by either the skirt or the bodice. Today's afternoon frock of Valencia blue crépe Elizabeth is a dead representative of this latter method.

The corsage is long and fits the hips snugly. Yet in doing it does not by any means renounce that other duty laid upon every bodies of today. That is to say, it establishes a definite indication of a waist line at its correct autumn position just above the hips and it also remembers all about blousing.

A minor for stuffing cabbage—all vegetable—which may also be used in many other ways is: One medium sized onion, one stem of celery, one half a green pepper—all cut fine—and then one-half cup of ground carrot. The amounts may be doubled to suit. Put these to cook in a frying pan with a little fat. Cover and cook gently for half an hour, without browning. Then add one cooked beet, chopped.

WM. DU PONT'S
FAIR STAR WINS
$68,160 FUTURITY

Beats Jopogan, Whisky
in Thrilling Finish.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 5.—(U. N.)—Fifteen of the season's best two year olds were forced to take the dust of William Dupont's Fair Star, which won the seventh running of the Pimlico futurity, worth $59,650 to the winner, this afternoon.

The race was as thrilling as any run in America this season. Fair Star, heading Jopogan by a nose, and Whisky from the Harry Payne Whitney stable was third. Holders of a $2 mutual ticket on the winner were returned $2.60.

Granddaughter of Fair Play.

Fair Star, barely conceded a chance to come within the money, ran the mile in the ordinary time of 1:40 2/5 on a fast track. She is a daughter of Wrack-Etoile Filante, the latter by Fair Play.

The weather was ideal and a large and fair crowd though witnessed the comparatively brief one of the richest stakes in America.

Fair Star, ridden by Jockey Bouross, raced close from the start, but did not come to the front until the far turn. Here the Dupont two year old began to wear the leaders down and coming through the stretch she took the lead.

Whitney Colt Third.

Jopogan, another outsider, saved ground on the turn for home and raced next to the rail with rare courage, to be beaten only a neck. A half length back trailed Whisky, the Harry Payne Whitney color-bearer, followed by Bostonian, his stablemate. The total value of the purse was $45,166. A. G. Weston drawing $5,000, second money and Harry Payne Whitney $2,500 for third and fourth. E. B. McLean's Jock was the early pace, but quit in the stretch.

Dogs Dive in Icy Lake, Make
Becker Shiver

By BOB BECKER.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Lake Koshkonong, Wis., Nov. 5.—Half of the fun of hunting with the Edgerton, Wis., gang of shotgun artists is watching the work of the many fine water dogs which these boys own and use. And after observing the retrieving done by the springer spaniels (and one Chesapeake Bay dog as big as a house) one begins to think that the dogs enjoy the sport even more than the hunters. However, one wonders if any real sportsman would find pleasure in swimming in a lake that is as cold as a polar sea.

This morning Downtown Bob, the blue ribbon springer, took his first icy plunge for a bluebill. The bird swung across a corner of our stool of decoys. Dean Swift, owner of the springer, and I rose to sprinkle a few sines on this hustling bird, but Dean beat me to it. One shot crippled the duck.

As the bluebill went down, Dean and Downtown Bob rushed for the duck boat. As soon as the boat left the shore, Bob ran to his lookout at the far end of the lake. He had to keep his eye on the cripple. In five minutes Dean's gun sounded, and I saw the springer make a swan dive to get the bird. The dog dove into the icy water as if it were a June day instead of cold November hunting weather.

Bum Battery Silences Elmer, but He's Back

And He Finds Several Excellent Programs.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

A brass-faced, six volt testing weak metal and rotten to the core. A battery made a mockery of my beloved and trusty set all Thursday evening and up to 8:30 o'clock last evening. Hence, no review yesterday morning and an incomplete one this morning.

It seemed like a happy coincidence that the first tones heard were what turned out to be a choice classical selection by EHM by Shura Guroff, a 19-year-old Russian pianist. Following a Chopin solo was a two piano selection by Aravsky, with Lester Mather at the second piano.

At this same hour, from W-G-N, a Polish male choral society under name The New Life, was giving a program of Polish folk songs and other songs, some familiar, some unfamiliar, and sung with the strong, vigorous, tone quality which we have learned to associate with male singers of this nationality.

Lovers of song by the tenor voice had Louis Meehan, lyric tenor, KYW, Edison studio, 9 to 9:30, to harken unto, and a half hour spent with Mr. Meehan is never spent in vain.

That trend of thought reminds me that two of our potentially good stations, WJAZ and WCFI, are not coming up to expectations. At this present point, WJAZ programs are not coming through with clearness, the announcing is lifeless and heavy, and the programs being libidinous, seem uninteresting. At WCFI the announcing is excellent, the programs usually so, but the signals have an echo-like effect that is disturbing.

The Phantom Violin's half hour regular, W-G-N, 9:30 to 10, was made up of very familiar numbers, hence was to be heard for its musical content, but it had no new meaning, making value.

Last place in the list and first place last evening was the "Bohemian Girl," given complete at WMAQ's studio, jointly with WLS, 8 to 10. To the writer, this light opera has a tonal atmosphere of a peculiar hue. Anyhow, it is a contrasting mixture of tunes and harmonies of singular beauty; moments of absolute uninterest; moments as heavy and effective as those found in most grand opera.

The announcer at WLS, in the close, stated at the conclusion of the series next Friday night that "if we wanted more operas there would be more operas by the means, let's have more operas from this capable company, more grand operas from any company—and no more false faced six volt batteries.

Wife's Suit for Balm Delays Trial of Couple

A deputy sheriff armed with a notice of a $50,000 alienation of affections suit yesterday halted the trial before Judge Herbert G. Immerman, a state's attorney, against John M. and Anna, 20 years old, and Miss Minnie Hunter, 46. The suit was filed by Malcolm's wife, Jeanne. Neither defendant was in the courtroom, although they had been previously. The prosecution intimated that Weymouth Kirkland finished his argument in behalf of W-G-N yesterday.

W-G-N got the injunction about a month ago after WGES jumped from a wave length of 240 meters to a wave length of 215.6 meters. The plaintiff's contention was that on the new wave length WGES was interfering with the broadcasting of W-G-N to such an extent that thousands of W-G-N fans were unable to hear the station at all.

The case is being watched with interest by the radio industry, as it is the first one in which the question of a property right in a wave length has been raised. W-G-N is asking that WGES be permanently enjoined from broadcasting on a wave length that interferes with the one in which by the right of priority, it claims to have established a vested right.

WALL STREET NOTES

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Curious cross currents of price may run through today's curb market, with major stocks on the up side, the minor way out resulting by professional traders, and isolated bear selling. Brokers reported a continued absence of public participation.

All stocks displayed good resistance to selling pressure in the face of recent market price cuts or price cuts. New Americans were again active and firms with other speculative interest centered in Curtis Graduate, American Marathco and Venerable. Public utility displayed greater strength and activity than they have for several weeks, with the buying centering in such names as United Gas Improvement, Philadelphia and Southern Power, and with other stocks showing a particularly strong price. Independent strength was also shown by Brooklyn Union Gas, Grandy Mining and Gold Packing.

In the foreign exchange market, sterling maintained its firm tone but French francs and a point to just below 2.30 cents and slight recoveries developed in most of the other continental rates.

Upward price tendencies were maintained in the bond market, but domestic issues were still price leaders as the center of interest. Railroad lines made a particularly good showing. Scattered realizing sales continued to hold back the leading European bonds after their remarkable advance of the last fortnight.
